42 (forty-two) is a natural number that follows 41 and precedes 43. Mathematics Forty-two (42) is a penetrating number and a bountiful number; its main factoring 2 3 7 makes it the second sonic number, as well as the second of the form (2 x 3 x p). Additional properties of number 42 include: This is the number of classes of isomorphism of all simple and oriented oriented graphs on 4 vertices. In other words, it is the number of all possible outcomes (in pre-isomorphism) of a tournament consisting of 4 teams, where a game between any pair of teams leads to three possible outcomes: the first team wins, the second wins, or there is a draw. A good example is the group stage of the World Cup. This is the third primary pseudo-effect number. It's a Catalan number. Therefore, 42 is the number of unrewrthed sections of five elements, the number of heptagon triangulations, the number of rooted orderly binary trees with six leaves, the number of ways in which five pairs of brackets can be organized, etc. This number of sections 10 is the number of ways to express 10 as a sum of positive integrators (note the other sense of section from above). 3- x 3 x 3 magic cube with summing up to 42 rows. Considering 27 cubes of the same size, whose nominal values progress from 1 to 27, 3 x 3 x 3 magic cube can be built so that each row, column and corridor, and each diagonal passing through the center, consists of 3 numbers, the sum of which is 42. This is the third pentadegonal number. This is the average number and the open average. 42 is the only known value, which is the number of sets of four different positive integrators a, b, c, d, each less than the value itself, so that ab q cd, ac q bd and ad - BC - are multiples of values. Whether there are other values remains an open question. 42 is the ideal number (super multi-multiperfect) because no2 (n) - o (n) - x x 6n. 5 x 65837): And the sum of its numbers (4 x 9, 3, 7, 7 and 7, 5), and the sum of the numbers in its main factors (3 x 5 and 5) lead to 42. The size of borel subalgebra in the exclusive algebra of Lie e6 is 42. 42 is the largest number n so that there are positive integers p, q, r with 1 y 1/n 1/p 1/q 1/r 42 is the smallest number of k so that for each surface Riemann C, #Aut (C) s k deg (KC) q (2g No 2) (Hurwitz automorphism theorem) 42 - that's the sum of the first 6 positive even 42 is the last natural number below 100, which can be expressed in the sum of three cubes without representation found. Science 42 is the atomic number of molybdenum. 42 is the atomic mass of one of the natural stable calcium isotopes. The angle is rounded to whole degrees, for which there is a rainbow (critical angle). In 1966, mathematician Paul Cooper stated that the fastest and most efficient way to travel across continents would be to have a straight hollow tube directly across the Earth connecting a set of antipodes, removing air from a tube and abyss. The first half of the path consists of accelerating free fall, while the second half consists of an exactly equal slowdown. The time for such a journey is 42 minutes. Even if the tube does not pass through the exact center of the Earth, the travel time is powered entirely by gravity (known as a gravitational train) always running to be 42 minutes, as long as the tube remains friction-free, as while gravity will be reduced, the distance traveled decreases at an equal speed. (The same idea was proposed, without the calculation by Lewis Carroll in 1893 in Sylvie and Bruno Comick. 11.) Now we know that this is not the case, and it only takes about 38 minutes. According to babylonians, for 79 years Mars revolves around the Sun almost exactly 42 times. The hypothetical efficiency of mass-energy conversion, according to E=mc2, in the presence of this mass orbit of a rotating black hole is 42%, which is the highest efficiency known for modern physics. Technology Magic numbers used by programmers: In TIFF (Tagged Image File Format), the second 16-bit word of each file is 42, an arbitrary but carefully selected number that even more identifies the file as a TIFF file. In the file system, reiser44 42 is the root catalogue inode number. In the military data recorder standard IRIG 106 Chapter 10 hex464F555555974776F (ASCII FORTYtwo) is used as a magic number to identify catalog blocks. The GNU C Library, a set of standard procedures available for use in computer programming, contains a function -memfrob()-which combines XOR of this variable and binary template 00101010 (42) as an XOR cipher. The tile of the plane using regular hexagons, which is honeycomb in appearance, approaches in a topological sense with an accuracy of more than 1% using a stretcher bond brick pattern with bricks of 42 squares (6 by 7). Number 42, in The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy by Douglas Adams, the answer to the final question of life, the universe and everything, is calculated by a huge supercomputer called Deep Thought for 7.5 million years, no one knows what the question is. Thus, to calculate Ultimate Question, a special computer the size of a small planet was built from organic components and named Earth. The final question What do you get when you multiply six by nine was found by Arthur Dent and Ford Prefect in the second book of the series, Restaurant at the End of the Universe. This appeared first in the radio game, and then in the novelization of Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy. The fact that Adams called episodes of the radio game fits, the same archaic name for the chapter or section used by Lewis Carroll in The Hunt for Snark, suggests that Adams was influenced by Carroll's fascination with and the frequent use of the number. The fourth book in the series, the novel So Long, and thanks for all the fish, contains 42 chapters. According to the novel Moby-Dick, 42 is the address of Stavromula Beta Street. In 1994, Adams created 42 Puzzles, a game based on number 42. Book 42: Douglas Adams's Amazing Response to Life, the Universe and Everything (2011) examines Adams' choice of number 42 and contains a collection of some examples of quantity in science, popular culture and humor. The works of Lewis Carroll Lewis Carroll, who was a mathematician, repeatedly used this number in his writings. Examples of Carroll's Use 42: Alice's Adventures in Wonderland has 42 illustrations. Alice's attempts to multiply (chapter two Alice in Wonderland) work if you use base 18 to write the first answer, and increases the base by three to 21, 24, etc. (answers running up to 4 x 12 and 19 in base 39), but breaks down just when one tries to answer at 4 x 13 in base 42, as a result of what a road to announce Alice! I'll never get to my 20s at this rate! Rule Forty-two in Alice's Adventures in Wonderland (All faces more than a mile high off the court). In 1966, mathematician Paul Cooper stated that the fastest and most efficient way to travel across continents would be to have a straight hollow tube directly across the Earth connecting a set of antipodes, removing air from a tube and abyss. The first half of the path consists of accelerating free fall, while the second half consists of an exactly equal slowdown. The time for such a journey is 42 minutes. Even if the tube does not pass through the exact center of the Earth, the travel time is powered entirely by gravity (known as a gravitational train) always running to be 42 minutes, as long as the tube remains friction-free, as while gravity will be reduced, the distance traveled decreases at an equal speed. In other words, it is the number of all possible outcomes (in pre-isomorphism) of a tournament consisting of 4 teams, where a game between any pair of teams leads to three possible outcomes: the first team wins, the second wins, or there is a draw. A good example is the group stage of the World Cup. This is the third primary pseudo-effect number. It's a Catalan number. In the courtroom scene described in the Egyptian and Book of the Pass (The Book of the Dead, which evolved from the texts of the coffin and pyramidal texts), there are 42 questions describing Maat's analysis. If the departed reasonably can give answers to 42 questions, they have the potential to be either reincarnated, or in case of complete success, to achieve the ultimate goal of becoming a star in which, they can continue to give light, and fuel Universal growth. These 42 questions correspond to 42 negative confessions from funny texts such as Ani papyrus. The 42-letter name contains four combined names, which are written in Hebrew letters (written letters and 42 letters), which is the name of Azilut (or Aicut Emanation). Although there is an obvious connection between the Forty two-letter name of the Babylonian Talmud and the Kabbalah Forty two-letter name, they are probably not identical due to Kabbalah's emphasis on numbers. Number 42, in Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy by Douglas Adams. Answer to the Final Question The universe and everything else, calculated by a huge supercomputer called Deep Thought for 7.5 million years. Unfortunately, no one knows what the question is. Thus, to calculate Ultimate Question, a special computer the size of a small planet was built from organic components and named Earth. The final question What do you get when you multiply six by nine was found by Arthur Dent and Ford Prefect in the second book of the series, Restaurant at the End of the Universe. This appeared first in the radio game, and then in the novelization of Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy. The fact that Adams called episodes of the radio game fits, the same archaic name for the chapter or section used by Lewis Carroll in The Hunt for Snark, suggests that Adams was influenced by Carroll's fascination with and the frequent use of the number. The fourth book in the series, the novel So Long, and thanks for all the fish, contains 42 chapters. According to the novel Mostly harmless, 42 is the address of Stavromula Beta Street. The works of Lewis Carroll Lewis Carroll, who was a mathematician, repeatedly used this number in his writings. Examples of Carroll's Use 42: Alice's Adventures in Wonderland has 42 illustrations. Alice's attempts to multiply (chapter two Alice in Wonderland) work if you use base 18 to write the first answer, and increases the base by three to 21, 24, etc. (answers running up to 4 × 12 and 19 in base 39), but breaks down just when one tries to answer at 4 × 13 in base 42, as a result of what a road to announce Alice! I'll never get to my 20s at this rate! Rule Forty-two in Alice's Adventures in Wonderland (All faces more than a mile high off the court). Rule 42 of the Code in the foreword to The Hunt for Snark (No one should speak to the Man at the helm).
